He acts for solicitors, trust practitioners and accounting firms and directly for members of the public, through the Public Access Scheme.

Robert has for several years been instructed also in personal injury cases, including credit hire, by both major insurance companies and firms of solicitors.

Although he has vast experience as an advocate at all levels of tribunal, Robert is also routinely instructed for advice and the drafting of court documents.

Recent examples of his work include a successful appeal against the imposition of a tax penalty against an individual by HMRC, the removal of an executor, advice on the interpretation of Wills, and CGT consequences of the sale of a large estate.
